Also deleted. He's kooky, but he's not qualified for the Looney Maroon award, so the nomination is refused on the basis of insufficient evidence. It's also refused because it looks as if the same person seconded it as made the nomination. Tsk, tsk, someone forgot to read the FAQ. The same someone will also be unable to nominate, second, or vote until after July 8th, because I'm suspending the franchise of "Dorkless Von Heinybeiter", "Lio Convoy", and anyone else posting from 69.28.186.121 until after the June AUK Awards ballot.

Sucks to be you.
Next time, read the FAQ!

How does one get banned from a newsgroup Charles? Perhaps someday you will understand how Usenet works.

I see you are trolling your kookiness in yet another group, this is akin to stalking Charles. You being a lawyer should know that.

Perhaps you should re-read, I am unable to vote or nominate kooks until after July 8th. You are becoming eerily close to Doug Reiman/Grant.

What's next? Going to spam your alt.firefly POS in the Dr Who group too?

No, he's been temporarily disenfranchised for suspected seconding of his "Suspected?" Oh, shit, you have to be joking. Actually, "Lio's" just putting it out there. The usual.

Hi "Lio."

No kidding.

This is typical misdirection. When I said "banned," I was talking about the basic group dynamic. I've been in moderated groups for years, I know all about'em, and so on.

This is typical troll crap. You say you've been "trolled" or "insulted" on "nttp" and the answer comes back, "Fool! It was "http," don't you know that? And trolling is an attempt to get responses, so you weren't "trolled" don't you know that? You are irrational and uninformed, and you have the date wrong in your header! Hurrumpf!"

The malicious poster in question used a sock puppet and was positively busted. The group's informal moderator simply did what was possible, and excluded the offender from voting, along with anyone posting from the whole IP range.

>You, on the other hand, look kookier all the time.

Sure, "Lio" Sociopathy. "Lio" is obviously sick in some degree.

Ever see the movie they made about Phillip Glass (journalist who lied and faked for the NYT?)

Once I catch up to "Lio," you'll see lots of crying, how he had bad toilet training, etc. And it might be true, sociopaths use whatever they have, true or false, to manipulate and coerce.

It's a typical pattern. Even if you get them on videotape, they say it isn't them, then, they have a twin, then OK, so what, what's the crime, then
I'm so sorry, I'm sick, couldn't help it, then etc.

No, I'm just indicating what an itchy trigger finger I have for disenfranchising people and disqualifying their ballots and nominations when I have evidence of voting fraud. I've been running votes and polls on USENET since 1993, and I've learned to thoroughly despise ballot stuffers.

Please to send more trolls like that to AUK. We (tinw) could use better entertainment.

Atlas, to whom do you think you're responding? Since you k'lame to be good at reading headers, you should be able to pick up a clue if I drop it in front of you. Here is the message ID for the post in which Lio was temporarily disenfranchised:

Message-ID: <f57nr6$ra...@blackhelicopter.databasix.com>

Here is the one for the message to which you just responded:

Message-ID: <f5nk1s$1d...@blackhelicopter.databasix.com>

Now, look at the headers to this message. Do you notice any similarities?

Finally, if the clue didn't sink in, click on the link below.

<http://www.caballista.org/auk/faq.html#question19>

"19. Who is the FNVW?

Why, our highly esteemed Friendly Neighbourhood Vote Wrangler (FNVW), whose benevolent supreme dictatorship runs the electoral wheels of our great realm. Eight fearless folk have served, with distinction:

AUK VOTE WRANGLERS
Craig Dickson (1994-1995)
Matthew Legare (1995-1997)
Killfile Daemons (1997)
Robbie Honerkamp (1997-1998)
Phoenix (1997-2004)
Peter J Ross (2004-2006)
Sean Monaghan (2005-Present)
Pinku-Sensei (2006-Present)"

Now, do you really want to explain to /me/ what // did, Atlas, especially when you are being incorrect?

> simply did what was possible,

The entire IP range for Limelight Networks is 69.28.128.0 - 69.28.191.255. I didn't "ban" all of those IP addresses. I just disenfranchised anyone posting from Lio's computer. Now, are you going to continue making that grandiose k'lame?

Here on AUK, we (tinw) see lots of sociopaths. You don't have to tell us (tinu) about them.

Yes, typical kooky behavior. Tell us (tinu) something new.

Are you still talking to me or are you again talking to Lio? If you can't help talking to Lio even when you're responding to someone else, then you are obsessed. Obsession is a kooksign.

> I'll probably file this week.

Oh, good, a kooksuit. Do keep the kookologists informed of its progress. AUK hasn't seen one of those in months.

I am an attorney. I can smell doubletalk a mile off. Now let's try again and see if you can manage a straight answer:

"Suspected? Oh shit, you have to be joking."

> Don't forget you're still responding to me, Atlas.

This cannot be determined, and you know that, and there is every reason to suspect an established liar - this is positively true - and an established sock-puppeteer - this too is positively true - to post as you now are, minimizing the one that defrauded your group, and instead citing me as kook.
If you wanted to look like "Lio," what more might you do?

And how about "lio's" fraud? Has he written in to say "fuck, I'm sorry?"
He is an unrepentant liar, which is far worse. You say you understand sociopathy. Instead, it sure looks like "Lio" talking. I've no doubt "lio's" been called sociopath, and knows a bit. But coping to it? Not his plan. And calling it? Not yours. What should we think, eh?

> I suspect you don't have a clue about the basic group dynamic of AUK.

It is a voluntary collective of folks, rather than a moderated or otherwise enforced organization. No fucking shit, asshole.

> "Suspected? Oh shit, you have to be joking."

Snrk On one level, I /am/ trying to be entertaining, although I'm not trying to entertain /you/. I'm engaging in kookology, a USENET Performance Science, which entails making rough fun at the expense of the kooky and the clueless while studying their online behavior. It keeps the kookologists and other onlookers entertained, even if the subject (in this case, you) doesn't find it particularly amusing. If you did, you might convince me that Lio is wrong, and you're not kooky.

On another level, I was being quite serious. I will disenfranchise on suspicion, not exhaustive proof. The previous FNVW established that precedent when Colonel Jake, a known kook and proud of it, nominated Catherine Burr of RAMD for the Palmjob Paddle. The nomination required seconds and thirds from a non-kooky poster. Colonel Jake made the mistake of getting his sister to second the nomination from Colonel Jake's own computer. The previous FNVW disenfranchised him

It didn't matter that it could really have been Jake's sister, the mere suspicion of sockpuppetry was enough.

For what it's worth, your reaction to my use of "suspected" has been quite gratifying, if only accidentally. Your dogged determination in trying to use my words to pursue your grievance against Lio has resulted in you foaming more and more spectacularly with every response. Do keep it up.

If Lio tried that, he'd likely have half-a-dozen kookologists jumping down his virtual throat, and I would gladly disenfranchise him permanently after giving him a Tinfoil Sombrero award. That hasn't happened.

> instead citing me as kook.

Your nomination was refused, so officially, you aren't one. I was merely pointing out that your behavior looked kooky to me, and the more you bluster, attempt to use my words to further your agenda, and display obsession and paranoia about Lio, the kookier you will look. Perhaps you should walk away from this discussion.

> If you wanted to look like "Lio," what more > might you do?

I could discuss Dr. Who, Firefly, and Battlestar Galactica, the topics of the other groups on the newsgroups line. I could certainly post about the Rose-Doctor relationship, especially how the dynamics changed between the Ninth and Tenth Doctors. That would make me look more like Lio. Now, what is your interest in any of these three science-fiction TV shows?

> And how about "lio's" fraud? Has he written in to say "fuck, I'm > sorry?"

He hasn't protested his innocence, attacked me or my decision, or shown anything that indicates kookiness. Instead, he's been very pleasant to me, which is more than I can say about anyone else I've disenfranchised.

> He is an unrepentent liar, which is far worse. You say you

> I've no doubt "lio's" been called sociopath, and knows a bit. But > copping to it? Not his plan. And calling it? Not yours.

Oh, I'm watching Lio. I don't like out-of-control kookologists; they make AUK look bad. However, your behavior is attracting far more of my attention than his.

> What > should we think, eh?

"The only people who have the right to refer to themselves as 'we' are kings, editors, and people with tapeworms." -- Mark Twain

>> I suspect you don't have a clue about the basic group dynamic of AUK.
>> That's OK, it's more amusing for us (tinu) that way.

> It is a voluntary collective of folks, rather than a moderated or > otherwise enforced organization. No fucking shit, asshole.

Thank you, that's the most clueful thing you've typed so far. It's a far better understanding of AUK than most display. Please do keep that in mind should you continue interacting with me and AUK.

>> I could have done more. Despite my itchy trigger finger, I was > [Yawn] Misdirection. Question: Was there a liar and defrauder? Or > was there not? Simple.

Well, you are convincing me that you really are an attorney; you are treating USENET as a courtroom, and me as a hostile witness. Those are not good working assumptions for you. I believe USENET shouldn't be treated that seriously, and I need to keep that in mind while dealing with you. This should be fun, at least for me and the other kookologists, I need to keep a smile on my face while responding to you.

As for Lio, well, he tried to pull a fast one at AUK's expense, and he was caught and punished. If you want to use that to support your opinion of him, be my guest. However, exaggerating his offense and punishment won't help you in your endeavor, nor will badgering me about it. It will only make the person who makes the decisions about who gets on the ballot (me) more inclined to accept future nominations of you.

>>> >You, on the other hand, look kookier all the time.

> Hi "Lio."

You really shouldn't confuse with your adversary; it makes you look obsessed.

> Or not, just a guy unable to reason for shit.

Snicker There is a significant difference between "can't" and "won't." In your case, the answer is "won't." In fact, I don't feel like giving you any more of my original thought. Instead, I'll quote you something from a guide to effective flaming that I wrote 12 years ago.

"Use the appropriate tools to analyze your target's rhetoric. Use of the wrong tools indicates that you did not properly understand the posting. In this case, the passage emphasized karma, a religious concept which cannot best be analyzed using logic, and whimsy, which relies on paradoxes in logic, and is best countered by humor."

Ta!
